

Groundwater Development Fund

Groundwater Development Fund was established by the Department of Groundwater Resources, Ministry of Natural Resources and Environment. The objective is to support grants for education, research, development, and conservation in groundwater resources and environment in order to achieve suitable and sustainable groundwater utilization.

Groundwater Development Fund has provided financial support to government and private agencies for conducting education, research and development projects in groundwater sources and environment with the aims to expedite research exploitation for promoting people's wellbeing and national development. The Fund is also a mechanism to support the development and conservation of groundwater resources and environment.

To conduct research in groundwater exploration and potential assessment; as well as, updated groundwater databases.

2.

To develop groundwater professionals in order to increase knowledge and skill in groundwater operations and controls such as groundwater drillers, engineers and geologists.

3.

To conserve groundwater by rehabilitating groundwater wells and monitoring wells; as well as, plugging abandoned groundwater wells.

4.

To provide funding for projects related to groundwater conservation.
